

Clarke Named By ASN Chapter

Edward O. Clarke, Jr., has been named the outstanding freshman of Loyola during 1947-48 by members of the college chapter of Alpha Sigma Nu, National Jesuit Honor Fraternity, Austin L. Byrd, President, revealed this week.

Clarke will be the recipient of a special ASN award for his service to the school.

Serving as President of his class after Charles Wittstadt left Evergreen, Clarke was also active in several campus organizations during his freshman year. He was Business Manager for two of the Mask and Rapier's major productions, News Editor of THE GREYHOUND, an outstanding debater and an active member of the Junior Sodality.

He was General Chairman of the Moonlight Cruise held by his class last July.

With another member of the Student Council, he was appointed to revise the Constitution last spring, and maintained a high scholastic standing.

MSA College Holds Tea Dance

A tea dance will be given this afternoon at Mount Saint Agnes' College between 4 and 7. The student body of Loyola College has been officially invited.

Last Friday afternoon, Notre Dame of Maryland College held a dance, and many Loyola students attended.

Over Fifty Per Cent Of Students Favor Dewey For President

"As Maryland goes, so goes the country!" So says the New York Times of September 19, in referring to pre-election polls in the past ten presidential elections.

In these elections, Marylanders have not only picked the winners but have been within five per cent of the national average.

THE GREYHOUND in utilizing this information conducted a poll of Loyola College students to determine their views on the coming presidential race.

Half Favor Dewey

Among the day school students, 50% favored Dewey as president while 81% felt he would win the election. Truman carried a favored 36%, while only 19% thought he would actually win over Dewey.

Of those students eligible to vote, 84% will go to the polls in Novem-

Theme Contest Features July '49 Junior Prom

Lawrence R. Mooney, General Chairman, announced this week that activity is in high gear for the Junior Prom of the class of July '49, to be held on December 3 at the Alcazar.

Carl Hamilton and his Orchestra have been signed to provide the music after officers of the class decided to have a local band in preference to a national group.

Plan New Features

Several novel features are planned for the event. Among them is a theme contest open to members of the class. The member of the July '49 group who suggests the theme which the Dance Committee decides to use will have the honor of having his partner named the Prom Queen.

This contest, the first of its kind at Loyola, was advocated by Class President Eugene Welsh in an effort to stimulate interest in the prom. Heretofore, it has been customary for the partner of the President of the class to serve as Prom Queen.

Mooney and his committeemen plan several more meetings to discuss details of decorations, program and entertainment.

Shea Invitation Chairman

Edward F. Shea, Chairman of the Invitation Committee, disclosed that price of invitations for the prom will be $3.95 per couple.

Booths will be set up in the cafeteria.

Freshmen Elect Kaspar Chairman

Francis X. Kaspar was elected temporary chairman of the Freshman Class during elections conducted on September 23 and 24. Kaspar was one of eight members of the class selected in nominations and was chosen by the board of eight to represent the class until permanent elections in January.

The eight nominated by the class were Richard Cadigan, Charles Connolly, Philip Dagostaro, Howard France, Thomas Garrity, F. X. Kaspar, Robert Mansfield, and James Wintz.

Kaspar, who was graduated from Loyola High School in June, becomes a member of the Student Council as a representative of his class.

518 Attending Night School

Total enrollment in the Evening School and Adult Education for the first semester of September-January stands at 518 students, the Rev. John E. Wise, S. J., Dean, announced this week.

Father Wise revealed that in the registration for the present term the Business and Education courses showed a slight advance. For the first time courses other than those specifically in Education are offered on Saturday morning. These include Effective Writing, English Literature, United States History, and Logic.

Figures released by the Dean's Office show that of the 518 students attending classes, 40 are day school students. Although total enrollment is slightly less than in September, 1947, Father Wise pointed out that last year the average student was taking 2.3 courses, while this year the average is 2.6 courses per student.

Included in the present enrollment are 182 veterans and 131 women.

"In the planning of the lecture and seminar program," Father Wise stated, "we are again offering the seminar on Medical Ethics, and the usual lecture series on national and international problems will also be presented."

Hazing Closes With Freshman Welcome Dance

Freshman hazing will officially close next Saturday, October 16, with the Freshman Welcoming Dance which will be held from 9 till 1 in the Evergreen Gym. Tickets are priced at $2.00 per couple, including tax.

Tickets are on sale in the cafeteria, and freshmen can purchase them from the Freshman Board of Directors.

Bill Maisel To Play

Lawrence Davis, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, announced that Bill Maisel would provide the music for the dance. Edward Clarke, President of the Sophomore class, heads the Dance Committee.

Milton Harris and Francis Barrett, Secretary and Treasurer respectively, head the Ticket Committee, and William Dempsey, Vice-President, is directing the dance publicity.

Decorations Planned

The Committee plans an extensive decoration program for the dance. Tables will be included among the many advantages which the Class hopes to introduce. It is the intention of the organization to convince the student body that a very successful and enjoyable dance can be conducted in the Gym.

Edward Frederick and Daniel Shehan, Co-chairmen of the Hazing Committee, are arranging a program for welcoming the Freshmen at the dance.

Actors Plan Loyola Night

Loyola Night, the annual variety show featuring members of the Mask and Rapier Dramatic Society, will again open the college theatrical season, according to Robert S. Custer, President of the group.

The show, to be held in the Gymnasium on November 5, will include various acts and skits, and will be followed by a dance.

Old Talent Returns

Initial "talent calls" during the last week of September were encouraging, Custer revealed. Practically all of the old talent was on hand for the meeting while several newcomers give promise of additional ability for the performance. Custer announced that there are acts open for others who might be interested.

Lawrence Davis was appointed Chairman of the Orchestra Committee, and will make arrangements for the selection of the orchestra for the dance. Gerard Kimmitt and James Burke head the Advertising Committee.

Moderator Pleased

The Rev. Leo G. Monaghan, S. J., the new Moderator of the society, was pleased with the turnout, and with Loyola Night as a starter, is looking forward to a successful season.

Custer announced that rehearsals will be called soon.

Some of the results of the poll:

Favored Candidates	DAY SCHOOL	NIGHT SCHOOL
Dewey	51%	60%
Truman	36%	30%
Thurmond	11%	7%
Thomas	2%	3%
Voting in Election	84%	90%
Democrats voting Republican	15%	30%

Fr. Didusch, assisted by Fr. McVeigh, incenses the altar during Solemn High Mass at St. Ignatius last Sunday, in commemoration of his 50th Anniversary in the Society of Jesus.

Students Present Chair To Loyola's Jubilarian

The Rev. Joseph S. Didusch, S. J., professor of Biology at Loyola, was twice remembered on the occasion of the celebration of his golden jubilee in the Society of Jesus last Sunday, October 3.

The Maryland Province of the Society feted Fr. Didusch with a day's ceremonies beginning with a Solemn High Mass at St. Ignatius' Church at 10:00 a. m.

Students Present Chair

The student body of Loyola College paid its tribute to the jubilarian by presenting him with a genuine leather, specially-made, easy chair and ottoman on the morning of the celebration.

Fr. Didusch celebrated his jubilee Mass assisted by the Very Rev. Francis J. McVeigh, S. J., Rector of St. Ignatius and the Rev. Joseph A. d'Invioliers, S. J., professor of Logic and Religion at Loyola College. He was guest of honor at the afternoon dinner given by the President and Faculty at the college.

Council Members Are Ushers

Further student participation in the celebration took place as the members of the Student Council, under direction of Clinton Bamberger, Council President, served as ushers for the Mass. Also present at the Mass were friends and relatives of

Fr. Didusch, many from out of state, and a number from the student body.

Fifty Jesuits, from all parts of the country, joined with the Faculty of Loyola in paying tribute to the jubilarian. Fr. d'Invioliers was toastmaster at the dinner and the Rev. Leo G. Monaghan, S. J., arranged a special musical program for the occasion.

Mendel Club Elects Fisher President

Jacob Fisher was elected President of the Mendel Club at the initial meeting of the organization on September 14. Francis McFarland was chosen Vice-President, Lawrence Atkinson, Secretary, and Hector DiNardo, Treasurer.

The Rev. Joseph S. Didusch, S. J., Moderator of the Club, addressed the group and outlined activity for the year. Each member will be assigned a topic and he will lecture on his subject before the other members on the meeting days.

The election of officers was conducted by Robert S. Custer who was appointed temporary chairman at the first meeting.

NSA Art Exhibit Requested For Display To Loyola Students

With the appointment of Mr. Myer F. Tobey, S. J., as Faculty Advisor, and after the bid for the National Student Art Exhibit had been mailed, the NSA came into its own on the Loyola Campus.

Under the auspices of the Classics Academy, the Art Exhibit, which originated at the NSA Congress last month, will be on display here at Loyola for one week.

Contains 100 Pictures

The exhibit is comprised of 100 paintings from the students of 37 colleges from Minnesota to Texas and from Vermont to California. It includes water colors, gouaches, etchings, lithographs and prints.

According to David McManus, President of the Classics Academy, the collection has been requested for the last week in October. Due to its crowded schedule, the date may be changed to later in the year.

Presented In 1F

Each college may keep the display for one week and then mail it to the next college on the list. The exhibit will be presented in Room 1F, basement of the Faculty House, which will be specially decorated for the event.

The NSA is composed of the entire enrollment of each member college and university. A commission composed of two senior and two junior delegates will be formed in the near future to guide the destiny of the college group.

Loyola Goes To India

When the SS. Steel Fabricator set sail from New York on August 17, it carried on board the second wave of Jesuits of the Maryland Province, bound for their Mission of Jamshedpur in India. Of the three priests and four scholastics in the group, two were formerly associated with Loyola College.

The Rev. John J. Blandin, S. J., was an Instructor in Chemistry here as a scholastic in 1939-1940, and Mr. Edgar B. Graham, S. J., after graduating from Loyola High School in 1941, spent his freshman year here, 1941-1942.

The address of these two Jesuit missionaries is: 43 Circuit Area, Jamshedpur, Manbhum District, Bihar Province, India.

College Rating High In Grad Tests

Results of the Graduate Record Examinations which 146 Loyola Seniors took on May 3 and 7 of this year indicated that the College had made a "very fine showing," according to Dr. William H. McHugh, Professor of Education.

Spencer L. Davidson, Dudley M. Shoemaker and Francis X. Rackensperger obtained the highest percentile ranks. Marks for individual students were ranged between 200 and 800. Davidson received a mark of 740. Both Shoemaker and Rackensperger received marks above 700.

High In Math

On an average, the Loyola students did better in General Mathematics and Physical Sciences than in any other of the eight departments in which they were tested. 500 was the average for all the colleges which took the examination. Loyola's average was well above 500 in both of these departments.

Besides being tested in Math and Physical Sciences, the students took examinations in Biology, Literature, Arts, Effectiveness of Expression, Vocabulary and Social Studies.

Takes Inventory

Dr. McHugh pointed out that the examinations did not necessarily determine the amount of knowledge obtained from formal education but that the tests took an inventory of knowledge regardless of where it was obtained. For example, there were sections in the examinations concerning things not commonly taught in the ordinary college course.

All of the students who took the examinations were mailed cards containing their marks and relative standings in the tests.

Franny Mueller, Jr. Enrolled For 1970

Franny Mueller, local athlete and instructor, has announced the birth of a son, Frances Joseph Mueller, Jr., who made his initial appearance on this orb on Sunday, October 3.

Junior has been registered at Loyola and is scheduled to be graduated in 1970. According to the proud pop, the youngster was doing gymnastics such as chinning, push-ups, etc., on the second day after his arrival.

Pooling Thoughts

Three freshmen, untutored in the wiles of treacherous indoor sports, approached me and asked advice on how to beat the football pools. Although it was rumored that he had played a modest role in breaking several of the national pool syndicates last winter, Mr. Dawkins declined to aid us.

However I approached a young man who has become somewhat addicted to wagering and I caught his eye just as he was removing his shirt to cover a bet on the Notre Dame of Maryland vs. Johns Hopkins rugby contest. He informed me not only how to beat one pool but all of them.

"Line all the pools up in a row," he began. "Then get yourself a vicious baseball bat, raise it high above your head and let 'em have it," he snorted. "That's the way I beat the pools."

Retreat Notes

Hymn singing was better than par although we didn't have an organist. As a matter of fact, we didn't even have an organ. One of the students volunteered to play the piano but his voice was changing. The authorities were afraid to take a chance with him because it was feared he would roam inconsistently from one key to another and thereby make singing difficult for male—all male—voices.

Sophomore Hazing

A careful survey showed that there was no room for the freshmen to hide behind the trees during the hazing period. The sophomores beat them to it. As time passes, we're beginning to wonder who is hazing whom.

Freshmen resurrected several Civilian Defense fire extinguishers from cluttered attics, filled them with water and ruthlessly splattered some of the better clothed sophomores. Other unfortunate freshmen were given ample opportunity to shed tears for Alma Mater when a commando-trained soph exploded a capsule of tear gas in their startled faces.

One pup was boasting loudly that the Sophomore Class officers had sailed for London where they plan to establish a government-in-exile.

Note: The Sophomore Class will meet in the basement of the Science Building to discuss a few technical difficulties which have arisen during the hazing period. Wear your raincoats and gas masks.

Your Student Council:

Members Meet To Debate Two Controversial Issues

E. Clinton Bamberger

E. Clinton Bamberger, President of the Student Council, conferred with campus leaders yesterday before the meeting of the Student Council concerning the two controversial proposals before the group.

Compulsory class dues and the office holding limitation bills were the main subjects of dispute. Mickey Parr pointed out the difficulty which faces class officers in staging affairs without the assurance that the debts would be paid by the class members.

Parr stated that it was unfair to place the entire financial burden on class officers and he suggested that compulsory payment of class dues would aid the situation. Robert Custer dissented vigorously and indicated organized opposition to the bill.

Frank Gallagher was scheduled to introduce a bill to limit the number of offices a man can hold at the College. At a previous meeting, he pointed out the dangers of placing too much authority in too few hands and he proposed that a point system be installed to regulate office holding.

The bill would have a definite bearing on several organization leaders now at the college. The date when this bill would go into effect promised to be a subject of dispute.

Other matters which the Council was scheduled to decide on were the appointment of a new N. S. A. delegate and the conducting of elections due in three organizations.

Loyola Student Serves As Television Producer

by James H. Dietz

"Stand by in the studio. Stand by to roll the ET theme. Camera one on the title card; camera two, focus. That's it—hold it. Thirty seconds. Quiet in the studio. Here we go. ROLL YOUR THEME, LAP IN CAMERA ONE, LAP CAMERA TWO, CRACK THE BOOM. CUE GLORIA. AHA! WE'RE FAT!"

This is the television jargon that crackles in the earphones of Dave Nottingham, a Loyola Junior, who is the Floor Director at television station WBAL-TV.

Experienced In Dramatics

Dave, who has four years of amateur dramatic work behind him, landed a job on the station's production staff about four months ago. Since then he has done "everything from painting scenery to announcing."

In his present position as Floor Director, he is the little man who stands between the two cameras and directs the action on the set. Connected to the control room, the producer and the cameramen by an intercom set, he relays instructions to the performers. His job may be compared to that of the director on a movie set.

Works After School

Dave's television day begins when his school day ends. His first program is Television Matinee, which goes on the air at 4:00 p. m. every afternoon. In addition, he directs the station's evening shows. At present he is also doing some production work.

Concerning his work, Dave said, "Television is a comparative newcomer into the entertainment field. It is rapidly expanding; its future is wide open, and it offers plenty of opportunity to young fellows who want to get in on the ground floor now."

Loyola Students Spend Over $10,000 Yearly On Cokes

$10,800 in nickels! That's the amount the Coca-Cola Company collects from the seven "little" machines at Loyola College in a year. Roughly speaking that means that the Loyola students drink 216,000 bottles of "The Pause That Refreshes" every year on the campus alone.

According to a report made by the local Coca-Cola agent, 225 cases of coke are placed in the machines every week. That means that 5,400 bottles are consumed weekly. The agent admits that, although he does his best to keep the machines full, he often finds that they have been empty for hours when he arrives.

On an average, each Loyola student drinks at least one bottle of coke every day. This figure is exclusive of the cokes they drink off the campus and the ones purchased at the cafeteria and snack bar.

The agent for the Coca-Cola Company dresses very neatly in his brown and red uniform. He does not assume the attitude of a large pop concern tycoon but quietly moves about his work like any ordinary vendor. Certainly the machine age is upon us, he agrees. The time has come when electricity and steel will earn a man's bread and butter.

Next week salesmen from the Coca-Cola Company will be found in the cafeteria selling stock in the organization. In the meantime when you're in Rome, do as the Romans do. Have a coke, have a coke, have a...

Magazine Heads Named For New School Year

John O. Scrimger and David L. McManus were named Co-Editors of The Evergreen Quarterly according to an announcement by Mr. G. E. Herzer, Moderator. Scrimger will serve as Literary Editor and supervise the selection of material for publication. McManus will handle the make-up, printing and technical duties of the publication. McManus will serve as Managing Editor.

The first meeting of the group was held in the office of Mr. Herzer on Tuesday, September 21. Several of last year's members and several new men interested in the work were present.

Heffner Leaves

Selection of new editors was made necessary by the decision of William Heffner, former Managing Editor, to withdraw from Loyola and enroll in a Creative Writing course at the University of Alabama.

Three issues of the magazine were published under Heffner's editorship. He introduced the novel make-up and the two color scheme in the book.

Contributions Received

Already Scrimger reports that several students have made contributions. Those who are interested in writing or who would like to aid in the copy reading or make-up should contact one of the editors or Mr. Herzer at his office in 14-D.

Present plans include the publication of three issues. McManus stated that he has already completed a schedule for the present year and that the first issue will be published in late October or early November.

Annual Elections Next Friday

Alumni Association elections for the 1948-49 year will be conducted next Friday, October 15, at 8:30 p. m. in the Recreation Room of the Alumni Gymnasium.

Trends indicate a spirited election and according to unofficial word, there are possibilities that opposition to the slate proposed by the Nominating Committee will take place at the meeting.

Officers of the organization look to the largest attendance of any election meeting in its history. Those who are taking a special interest in the election are said to be contacting as many members as possible.

Letter To The Editor

October 5, 1948

Editor, THE GREYHOUND:

May I express to the Faculty, Student Council and Student Body of Loyola College, through the worthy columns of THE GREYHOUND, my grateful appreciation for their remembrance for my Golden Jubilee.

Highly prized as these gifts are, far more cherished are the thought and spirit which prompted their bestowal.

From the beginning, Loyola has been noted for the mutual co-operation of the members of the Faculty and their personal interest in their students, and for the more than friendly regard of the students for their teachers. This tradition, handed down through the years, finds a practical expression in the present instance.

May I bespeak for all, Teaching Staff and Student Body, the fullest realization of their hopes and ambitions, and the most bountiful blessings of God throughout many happy years to come.

Very truly yours,
Rev. Joseph S. Didusch, S. J.,
Professor of Biology.

Smart And Stupid

On November 2, the smart people of this section will go to the polls and cast their votes for the man whom they believe will make the best president. On November 2, the stupid people will stay at home and continue to moan about the state of politics in the United States.

We have at Loyola many who are eligible to vote this year. According to the results of a poll taken by THE GREYHOUND, a large group of students do intend to vote. There are others who are not particularly worried about whether or not they vote. It is to them that we address our remarks.

Patriotism to some people is a sacred thing. To others it is so much nonsense. It wasn't nonsense when those engaged in the last war were risking and giving their lives. It wasn't nonsense when many of our best leaders fell in the battle.

These sacrifices were made for one reason—so that Americans could continue to go to the polls and select their leaders. Those who call patriotism nonsense, those who do not take advantage of the democratic prerogative of voting are not being true to those who sacrificed for them.

There is a tendency for the up-to-date American to regard his duties and rights as sentimental and old-fashioned. Those who live under the rule of tyrants would give anything to be able to indulge in such sentimentality. They would have no qualms of conscience about being old-fashioned. The trouble with Americans is that they've had too much of a good thing.

Vote on November 2 and help dispel this pernicious tendency.

BOOKS

Shannon's Way

—A. J. Cronin

In giving us Shannon's Way, A. J. Cronin has again provided us with a novel which mirrors the conflict between man, his ambitions, and the forces which surround him. The human equation is an uncertain one. Robert Shannon, M. D., learns the difficult way, which makes a very absorbing story.

Robert Shannon, a poor English research assistant, fearful of the fate which a general practice might hold for him, resolves to astound the world with an original discovery, alleviating the ills caused by a certain germ. Ideals are high; funds are low. After losing his position in the laboratory, he decides to work alone. Loss of the position is somewhat eased by the discovery of his love for Jean Law, medical student, and her mutual affection.

However, this feeling should never know fruition due to their different backgrounds; she a Covenantant; he a Catholic, albeit weak. The story moves from one poor research laboratory to another. Miss Law becomes his assistant; together they identify Bacillus C, acknowledge their love and are torn apart. Alone he perfects a vaccine for the germ only to discover, too late, his findings were paralleled by an American scientist. Disappointments along the path of good are not easy; Shannon succumbs. Finally his nervous breakdown brings the two together.

The story is very readable and entertaining. The author portrays his subject well. However, one cannot help but wish Robert Shannon had as much strength of character as he had tenacity of mind.

The Golden Year

Basketball is king at Loyola. For a number of years, the Greyhounds of Loyola College have been gaining more and more of a name in court circles. This year should be the golden year for the Greyhounds.

Ordinarily you wouldn't think that you would have to ask students to attend the games of a great team. Last year we did. The student body didn't seem to care. Finally at the end of the season, someone breathed some life into the students.

This year we're not going to ask anyone to attend the games. We don't think it will be necessary. We have reason to believe that Loyola has lost its apathy, that we're really a college unit.

There will be but one greeting on the campus when basketball season opens and that will be "See you at the game."

Put On The Toga

The Freshmen are on their own. They have passed the probation period with banners flying. They have succeeded in jostling a few Sophomores. Indeed, they more than jostled them—they have given them the works.

We congratulate them and ask them to show in some profitable endeavor more of that determination and will power they've been flashing in the teeth of the upperclassmen lately.

Student Council authorities hope that the Freshmen are more of a compact group than they were at the initiation of class. Loyola has done its best for you. So from now on, let's hear big things from the "pup" class.

50 Years In God's Service

There are times in the lives of men when it becomes most appropriate to pause for a while and look back. One of these times is a fiftieth anniversary. To some few men it is given to complete a half century of service in a particular field. The Rev. Joseph S. Didusch, S.J., is one of these men.

To a student in college, it seems almost inconceivable that the mild, soft-spoken professor of biology entered the service of God two years before the turn of the twentieth century. Such a span of time in one endeavor seems to overtax the imagination of young men. Yet before we were born, before the births of many of our parents, Father Didusch was numbered among the servants of God.

From all sides Father Didusch has been flooded with congratulations. His tributes have been many. Yet any praise which has been heaped upon him has, in a way, fallen short of the monumental work for which he is being honored.

His success as a Jesuit can be measured in the number of times he has administered the sacraments, the number of souls he has helped along the path toward heaven, the example he has given his students. His success as a teacher is borne out by the outstanding work of his students, many of whom are doctors caring for the sick of the community. Educators recognize that a student trained by Father Didusch is a man who knows his subject.

Fifty years of Christ-like work is a wonderful record. We of Loyola congratulate Father Didusch. May God grant him many more years of priestly life.

Caesar, Would you mind shoving over just a bit.

A Reminder:

November is election-month. October is the Rosary-month. Say the Rosary each day during October to the Queen of Peace for World Peace. Say it, if you can, in the Students' Chapel. Say it, if you can, at home with your family, whether you're a father, husband or son. But whether at home or at school,—say it.

Some of the students have been reciting the rosary in a group before the statue of Our Lady of Evergreen. It would be an encouraging sight should more Loyola students join in this daily tribute to the Mother of God.

Golfers Inaugurate Fall Links Practice

by Mickey Parr, Sports Editor

Every sport fan is familiar with the great importance attached to spring football practice in schools throughout the country; and we understand that some of Villanova's basketball stalwarts kept active this past summer, working as a unit.

So Father William Herlihy, Loyola golf coach, is determined to let no grass grow under his feet, and is bringing a new wrinkle into sport's ever increasing off-season activity.

Not only is he getting a line on prospects for the 1949 campaign by holding an autumn elimination tournament, but he'll also view his first choices under fire, in an exhibition match against the Johns Hopkins' divot diggers

Big Job Ahead

The soft-spoken links mentor has a man-sized job on his hands in attempting to shape a formidable unit to defend the Mason-Dixon crown, won last spring. He has a good foundation in Jack Cronin, the 1948 Maryland Intercollegiate and Mason-Dixon fairways king, and Mel Beeler, a better than average golfer who is still improving.

However, when you lose such men as Len Saltysiak, Nemo Haslbeck, and Tom Gisriel, it's a tough job to find adequate replacements for them within one season.

Old Rule Activated

An old ruling, that hasn't been applied too much in recent years, is being revived to the full extent of its power by Athletic Director Emil Reitz. From now on, no varsity athlete will be allowed to compete for an outside club during the period when he is sporting Green and Gray spangles.

Contrary to initial appearances, this bit of jurisdiction is very justifiable and beneficial to Loyola athletics. No athlete can operate progressively under two coaches (and possibly two different systems) at the same time. Nor can he muster up a full spirit of loyalty and devotion to each organization.

Moreover, a certain percentage of rest is necessary in any sport, and this isn't very likely to come the way of a lad who puts out his all for dear old Loyola throughout the week, and then carries on for Whosis Athletic Club over Saturday and Sunday.

Cross-Country Running Lacks Glamour

Probably the most unglamorous and unheralded sport operating under the Loyola banner is cross-country racing. The sound-winded fellows who pound away mile after mile around the neighboring countryside, or follow the rigorous course at Clifton Park every afternoon, have no curious, interested spectators watching their efforts.

No one is there to clap them on the back after a successful time trial. During a meet, each man is on his own from start to finish, and must supply his own encouragement and moral uplift. Even when the eventual winner staggers across the finish line, very few spectators are there to congratulate him. Cross-country is not a spectator sport.

One conclusion is certain. The boys in this game are running for sport, and sport alone. Nevertheless, they are human; and if a large group of Loyola students are present at the season's opening meet against Johns Hopkins on October 15, I'm sure the Loyola team's efforts will be greatly increased.

Soccerites Seek Second Crown

This afternoon's soccer game, to be played on the local pitch, marks the beginning of the fourth Mason-Dixon campaign for Loyola's booters. It also marks the beginning of an opportunity for the Green and Gray to be the first school to annex the soccer title more than once.

The locals grabbed the pennant in the league's opening year, 1942. There was no championship awarded during the war years, 1943 to 1945. Johns Hopkins took over the helm in 1946, and last season the Sho'men from Washington College nosed out Loyola for top honors. It's about time for the Greyhounds to step in once again.

Cross-Country

Harriers Hopeful For Success Against Hopkins

by Bob Roesner

Loyola will travel to Johns Hopkins to engage the Blue Jays in a cross country meet that may go far in deciding the Mason-Dixon hill-and-dale title, on October 15.

Hopkins will again be guining to down the Greyhounds, but the Evergreen team has an entirely different idea. Each member of Coach Bill McElroy's group feels that this is Loyola's year and the Blue Jays will be number one to fall in their path.

Hounds Strong

Any meeting between Hopkins and Loyola is always a spirited contest, but this meet will carry an extra incentive for Loyola. Hopkins was one of last year's co-champions. Couple this with the facts that most of their men will return, and that Loyola will field its strongest team in years, and you can see why the meet should be a natural.

Things are beginning to shape up nicely and Coach McElroy is well pleased with the progress of his team. The main cogs this year will be George Brown, Jim Kaufman and Yogi Paszek.

However, much aid is expected to come from five additional boys who have been clocking good times in their daily runs. These men are John Kogler, Ed Steinmetz, Larry Atkinson, Howard Will and Joe Kimmerlein.

Brown Starts Early

George Brown got an early start and proved he is in good shape by racing in the recent Municipal Games. He came in second, close on the heels of Don Heinecke, well-known veteran.

The Blue Jays are also well stocked with good runners who fully intend to start off their season with a victory. They have lost their star, Al Troxel, via graduation, but returning are Joe Grimm and Ed Harkness, two top hill and dalers.

Coach McElroy has respect for these boys and is attempting to round his team into top shape. He considers this meet a must victory if the Greyhounds are to take cross-country laurels.

Golf

Exhibition Planned

Spring is the season for intercollegiate golf matches, but the Rev. William Herlihy, S. J., Loyola links coach, has decided to jump the gun and get a line on his 1949 squad before winter sets in.

According to the original plans, those interested in trying out for the golf team will each play an 18-hole medal round. From these results the men will be aligned in order, best scores first.

Then, on October 10, the candidates will meet each other in match play on the Mt. Pleasant Golf Course, also the scene of the medal rounds. Mt. Pleasant is used as Loyola's home course in regularly scheduled matches.

Father Herlihy will then use the results of the above competitions to select a six-man squad, which will play an exhibition match against Johns Hopkins University, on October 16.

With such thorough plans, the boss of Loyola's divot-diggers hopes to find adequate material to aid his veteran nucleus of Jack Cronin, Mel Beeler, and Dick Auderson.

Seven Letter Men Bolster Loyola Squad

by Gerry McCormick

The Greyhounds open their 1948 soccer season today as they entertain Towson State Teachers College at Evergreen. The powerful Loyola team is making a strong bid to take the Mason-Dixon Conference crown, and is not expected to have too much trouble with Towson whose team did not win a game last season.

Coach Bishop Baker is beginning his third year at the Loyola helm and has seven letter men from last year's squad, which finished second in the Mason-Dixon race.

Kropfelder To Play

Loyola's main scoring threat will be Nick Kropfelder, a veteran center forward, whose effectiveness is marred by the threat of the collapse of his bad knee, an ailment which also plagues Tommy Lind, the star fullback from last year. Kropfelder scored almost half of the team's points last season.

Since the backfield is not as strong as the front line, Coach Baker may have to move Henry Linz from his usual inside right position to a backfield spot.

Promising Newcomers

New to the team this year are Armando Luzzi and Jimmy Bullington, who are displaying plenty of skill. Though both are rather small, their speed will more than offset this disadvantage.

The main problem for Coach Baker will be to decide whether to weaken the strong front wall in order to strengthen the backfield, or to leave the front line intact and take a chance with a backfield which is weak in spots. The scrimmage with Mt. St. Joseph's High School last Wednesday and today's game will help him to make that important decision.

Speedy Towson Team

In order to become more familiar with his players and their ability, Towson's new coach, William Clarke, Jr., has already put his charges through a few scrimmages and a game with Frostburg Teachers, which game the latter won 4-0.

The Towson squad is built around a nucleus of ten holdovers, including backs Keith Remboldt, Fred Panetti, and Bill Scott; forwards Dick Hoddnott, Herb Westfall, Don Taylor and Jack Shiflett, and goalie Jules Fries. Much is also expected from rookies Ray Speer, and Don Ritter, a basketball star.

The Towson booters are exceptionally fast and expect to give every team on their ten game schedule a rough game.

The Greyhounds have a large, experienced squad and should make an improvement over last year's record when they won seven games, lost three and tied one. Other returnees who will be heavily counted on are Johnny Amer, Jerry Dotterweich, John Gants, Dick Hicks, and George Phillips.

Joe Boulay, a small but scrappy player, was expected back for this year's squad, but he recently turned his talents over to Uncle Sam as an Army Aviation Cadet.

Luzzi Boosts 1948 Soccer Hopes For Greyhound Team

by Johu Bailey

Don't look now, but a very welcome boost has been given to the attack of Loyola's soccer lineup for the 1948 campaign. The boost comes in the person of one Armando Victor Luzzi, who learned the pitch game in sunny Italy, where babies nudge soccer balls in their cribs.

Not too many months ago, September 6, 1947, specifically, a ship dropped anchor in New York harbor, and down its gangplank the husky Italian youth of twenty-three summers shyly strode.

His face glowed with the anticipation that he was soon to join the family he had not seen for thirteen years.

Happy In America

He was home in a land where he could pursue his life in a manner he saw fit, a land where no proud dictator would lay down an insane militaristic code that would endanger the welfare of millions. And Armando Luzzi was mighty happy about the whole affair.

This lad finds his way over to the soccer field every afternoon that his pre-med schedule permits. It was Bish Baker, the soccer coach, who tipped off THE GREYHOUND to the boy's presence on the campus, and it was our lot to pick up from there.

Armie speaks with a bit of a "brogue," so it was only with the aid of Mr. Vincent Colimore, tennis coach, that the interview was brought to a successful conclusion.

Started Early In Life

At ten, an age when American youths are fast gaining proclivities in the baseball line, Armie began his soccer career. He claims that he has been kicking or 'getting kicked at' ever since he can remember.

In 1935, he left this country to attend school in Rome, the home of his father; and it was while studying at the Liceo Santa Maria, under the Marianist Fathers, that the war trapped him.

Getting him to relate his war experiences was a difficult task; most of the time he was content to remain silent. We did learn that he was forced to live in the mountains for nine months and, as a guerilla, he harassed the German troops in the sector.

Aided War Prisoners

Once he had an opportunity to aid the escape of an American prisoner and four others from a war camp in Bologna. When the first American forces landed, Armando attached himself to the AMG as an interpreter in the Rome-to-Naples District.

Then we turned the conversation to soccer, and experienced little difficulty in obtaining information, but once again the modest-speaking fellow volunteered little information about himself.

Finally, we learned that he had competed for three years on his high school team and had won All-Star honors for three years. At the close of the war, he joined the S. P. E. S. Soccer Club (Societa Privernati Esercizi Sportiva), which captured the provincial championship during the fall of 1945.

Experienced Player

This was no easy feat in a land that sent forth two Olympic Championship soccer clubs. Luzzi was a starter on this team, so you can readily understand that he knows his way around a soccer field.

When asked to compare American soccer with the brand played in Europe, Luzzi stated that the two styles are as different as night and day. Europeans play the ball exclusively, while it is characteristic of the hard-charging Americans to play the man.

He seemed to think that the European soccer was more impressive than the soccer he has seen in America. Concerning Loyola's great booter, Nick Kropfelder, Armando says that Nick would have little trouble holding his own in Italy, bad leg and all.

Sports Calendar

In order to help the students of Loyola to keep an up-to-date memo of scheduled varsity athletics, THE GREYHOUND will continue its policy of printing the current schedule in each issue.

Loyola Coaches

Baker, McElroy Establishing Firm Coaching Foundations

Bishop F. Baker

With the opening of the fall varsity sports program looming directly ahead, activity on the athletic field has reached a new high.

Bish Baker, coach of soccer, and Bill McElroy, coach of the cross-country team, eye the future with a faint touch of optimism.

Third Year As Coach

Mr. Baker, better known by the students as Bish, is starting his third season as coach of soccer. He is also the Graduate Business Manager and coach of lacrosse. Last spring he received the honor of being assistant coach on the All-South Lacrosse team. Before Franny Mueller joined the coaching staff, Bish also handled the swimming team.

The soccer team has taken lengthy strides since Baker took over the reins a few years ago. Last year the Loyola team was second only to Washington College in league standing.

Bish was highly impressed by the turnout of players at the initial practice session this year. He has hopes that this will be a banner season.

Coach McElroy's Second Year

Coach Bill McElroy, former track star at Mt. St. Joseph's College, is beginning his second year as coach of the cross-country team. Bill, who operates the college bookstore, and is coach of the track team, looks forward to a fine season.

Upon McElroy's arrival here, he was confronted with the task of building up a team in a sport which had not attracted too much interest. However, his charges are gradually gaining the prominence which they deserve.

Consequently, beginning with the next issue of THE GREYHOUND, a contest is planned, whereby each Loyola student who is able to foresee more winning games than Vince will be amply rewarded with a suitable prize.)

Basketball Fans Wanted

The Athletic Department has released an announcement to the effect that Season Basketball Books for Loyola students will not be available until October 15. An unavoidable delay in the printing of the books has necessitated moving the original date back two weeks.

Season books to the Greyhounds' home basketball games were made available to Loyola students on October 1. They will continue to be available, at the Athletic Office, until November 15. Most important, there is no cost to students.

Don't be one of those who continually puts off the matter until it is too late. Your basketball representatives shape up as one of the leading teams in the East this year, and an exciting campaign is assured.

Every seat in the south stands should be packed with Loyola students, not for just a few games, but for every game. The team needs your support. How about some action?

Booters Travel To Two Important Tilts

by Gene Conroy

One week after Bish Baker's soccer team exchanges boots with Towson Teachers in the season's opener, they travel to Chapel Hill, N. C., to battle the up-and-coming Tar Heels soccer club. The test is scheduled for October 15.

This will be the second time the two teams have met. The first encounter took place last year at Evergreen. In that contest Coach Baker's booters blanked the visitors by a 4-0 score.

Carolina Greatly Improved

However, the Tar Heels will field a veteran squad which has improved a great deal since their visit here. Indications are that the Greyhounds will be in for a tough game on this, their longest trip of the season.

Five days rest will then be granted the team before they take on last year's Mason-Dixon Conference championship club, the Washington College Sho'men. The game, to be played at Chestertown on October 20, should provide a number of thrills for the spectators, if it is a repeat performance of last year's 3-2 loss for the Green and Gray.

Washington Is Tough Foe

Inasmuch as the Eastern Shore College retains the same team as last year, save two men, Bish Baker is looking forward to a rough contest, with the hosts a slight favorite to win. But, with the spirit and hustle the team has shown to date, Loyola will be no pushover for the '47 Champs.

If the team comes out on the winning end of these two tussles, and its other big hurdle, the Maryland ten, chances for an undefeated Greyhound season look fairly hopeful.

Cross-Country Course Offers Rugged Test

Sketch by Bradley

When Loyola's harriers act as host for a cross-country meet, the rugged trails of Clifton Park's hill-and-dale course serve as the base of operations.

Illustrated above is a map of the course, a handy guide for any students who might be interested in following the fortunes of the Greyhound team.

Course Circled Twice

The course is two miles long and has a goodly supply of hills. Twice around the circuit completes the run, under collegiate standards.

Starting from the Mansion House, the course leads to the Alameda. From there it follows the path along Harford Road, and winds around Clifton Park Junior High School.

Indian Hill Tough

After circling to the right of Polytechnic's enclosed track the hilly section begins. Immediately on recrossing the Alameda there looms an upward stretch which is climaxed by Indian Hill, a grind of about 200 yards.

This is directly behind the park greenhouse area. After circling the greenhouse the route leads to a final difficult hill, the one approaching the first tee of the golf course.

Then, coasting downhill for a brief spell, the home stretch is reached, extending parallel to the Alameda.

Intramurals

Football, Horseshoes And Tennis Set Swift Pace

by Ed Ward

FOOTBALL

The stage for the intramural football leagues is set and play began this week. There are many prospective teams eyeing the championship this year. Heading this list are the defending champions from last season.

With the exception of a new name, July '49ers, and the absence of Frank Scrivener, the team has remained intact from last year and seems to be "loaded" again.

Heading the six is Capt. Ray Wittelsberger, Jerry Laroque, star of last year's Hopkins game, Bob Miller, Skinny Simms, and John Mohler.

Runners-up from last year are now under the name of the Shmoos led by Tom Ostendorf, Bob DeLisle, Dick Fallon, and Joe Gillotti. The honor of having the heaviest team goes to the Diz Kids with Jeep Mueller, Dick Farace, Al Judkins and Frank Linardi weighing in.

There are four to five teams in each league and six different leagues. A double loss constitutes an elimination of a team. Respective league winners will have a play-off to decide the Loyola Championship team. Assisting Franny Mueller in his work is Larry Smith, who has been named official timer and referee.

TENNIS

Forty-four entries are listed in the Tennis Tournament line-up on the Gym bulletin board. By the end of this week all first-round matches should be played and the results handed in.

Benny Spurrier seems to be in for some stiff competition this year, and will have to keep on the alert to defend his laurels, as several worthy challengers have been seen stroking the ball on the courts. While many of these are freshmen, some familiar faces may be seen in Mickey Parr, Joe Woytowitz, Bill Tompkins, Rip Roberts and others.

HORSESHOES

The success of a horseshoe tournament was in doubt for awhile, since last year just enough entries were turned in to allow the tourney to be held. This year it's a different story with over twenty-five entries in already. Today is the dead-line for entries.

All in the tourney are reminded that they can practice at any time. All that is necessary to obtain horseshoes is to leave your A. A. Card in the equipment room. Contestants should keep an eye on the Gym bulletin board for opposition and schedules.

Alumni Bowling

Dual Leaders Pace Action

With seven teams competing, and two weeks of bowling behind them, the Alumni Association's Bowling League is off to a promising start.

Currently tied atop the loop with 7 wins and 2 losses are the class of October '43 and the classes of '44-'45, operating as a combined single entry. Close behind them are the classes of January '43 and the class of '48 with 6 won and 3 lost records.

League Secretary Charles V. Bitterli, October '43, urges anyone interested in bowling with the Alumni on Tuesday nights to contact him at Be. 8588. Additional teams are being sought, to be made up of class groups, if available, or individuals.

The standings, as of September 28, are:

	W.	L.
1. Class of '44 & '45	7	2
2. Class of October '43	7	2
3. Class of January '43	6	6
4. Class of '48	6	5
5. Class of '47	5	4
6. Class of '40	4	1
7. Class of '42	1	8

High single game, 136—Baker, Jan. '48.

3-game high, 333—McCollum, '47, and Bitterli, Oct. '43.

Father Monaghan Plans Heavy Year For Aspiring Thespians

The Rev. Leo G. Monaghan, S. J., brings with him to Loyola College a vast store of "know how" in the field of dramatics and looks forward to an activity-filled year with the aspiring thespians on the campus.

Father Monaghan has been a member of the Society of Jesus for twenty years, having entered at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1928 after his graduation from Regis High School, N. Y. His entire teaching career has been confined to Georgetown where he served as Moderator of the Dramatic Society and The Hoya, the school newspaper.

Teaches Religion

Part of his new duties at Loyola includes instruction of upperclassmen in senior religion. Father Monaghan announced that he will devote part of the course to what he terms "cocktail apologetics." He hopes that this will enable the students to explain the truths of Catholicism to those who show an interest at social functions.

Father Monaghan was born in New York City in 1911. Besides being a graduate of Regis, he has also received a Master of Arts degree from St. Louis University.

Takes Over Sodality

Besides his duties with the Dramatic Society, he will take over the Moderator's post in the Senior Sodality.

Father Monaghan states that his first impressions of Loyola students have been favorable. He met many Baltimoreans while at Georgetown and consequently is not a novice in the wiles of the students from the Monumental City.

The Rev. Leo G. Monaghan, S. J.

Sodalists Plan Full Schedule

Junior Sodality plans for the coming school year were drawn up at the organization's first meeting which was held Thursday, September 22, at 8:00 a. m. Mr. John Burns, S. J., newly-appointed Moderator of the Society, announced that a probation period would be conducted for the incoming Freshmen to determine their acceptability for the Sodality. He further stated that emphasis would be placed on this probation during the first part of the year rather than upon committee activity.

Ferdinand Leimkuhler, Prefect of the Sodality, presided at the meeting and explained the fundamental ideas of Sodality to the prospective Sodalists. Two board meetings had been held previous to the general gathering to prepare a tentative schedule of activity. Present plans provide for a meeting that will deal solely with an explanation of Sodality rules.

The officers explained that the general Sodality program will strive toward personal sanctification first and then it will set out on its usual scheme of activity.

Under the direction of Rev. Joseph A. d'Invioliers, S. J., Rev. Aloysius R. Mack, S. J., and Rev. John J. Scanlan, S. J., Loyola's Student-Counseling system will begin activities early this month.

Father Mack will be in charge of the Junior and Senior classes while Father d'Invioliers will aid the Sophomores. Freshman duties will be handled by Father Scanlan.

Although arrangements have not yet been completed, tentative plans call for the notification of students by mail as to the time of their appointment with their respective counselor.

Father Scanlan summed up the purpose of the counselors' activities by saying, "We want the students to feel free to call on us at any time they desire; we are here to advise them as best as we can in both spiritual and temporal matters."

A topcoat, raincoat & overcoat combined!

(Removable Lining)

On the football field, some players are triple threats—they can pass, run and kick. In the field of apparel, Eddie's new all-wool gabardine coat is an all-around performer too. It has a removable lining in body and sleeves and convertible collar. With the lining in, it's an overcoat. With the lining out, it's a topcoat or a raincoat, because it's weatherproof too!

Annual Drive Begins For Greyhound Ads

Jerry Jackson, Business Manager of THE GREYHOUND, has announced that the annual drive is being conducted to obtain ads for the school publication. Ad blanks have been distributed to all members of the newspaper's staff and additional blanks can be obtained in THE GREYHOUND office. Jackson urged that all students take an active part in obtaining ads for the paper and added that a commission of 15% will be given on ads that are returned. Rates for advertising are one dollar per column inch.
